

Work Started Hagwilget Bridge---Wood Structure To Replace Steel Bridge

The district engineer of the public works department, Mr. Gwyer, arrived in New Hazelton on Monday evening last and was joined here by his assistant, Mr. Cotten, together with an instrument man and a chain man.

On Tuesday morning the party went over the route of the new road necessary for the new bridge to cross the Bulkley river near Hagwilget. The district engineer gave orders for men to be put on clearing the right of way for the road and it is understood that a gang of construction men will be put on the job immediately, also that one of the power shovels will be appropriated for the work as most of the road will be side hill cutting. The new road necessary will be, the Herald learns, just a mile and 300 feet longer than the present road, and that the grade will be from two to six per cent. Both sides of the river will have practically the same grades and the new road will be divided about equally between the two sides.

The new site for the bridge is the first high rock bank above the present high level bridge. The new structure will be a two-way wooden bridge, four hundred odd feet long and a little over a hundred feet above the level of the river, or less than half as high as the old high level bridge, the latter is also a steel structure, while the proposed new bridge will be of wood with a life of about 18 years. The cost of the new bridge and the extra road needed will be less, the engineer says, than $80,000.

The new road will join onto the old road at a point about a hundred yards from the high level bridge. For the most part the road work will be side hill work with some rock work on each side it was classified as hard pan by the surveyors, but most likely it is gumbo, similar to all the rest of the country.

The department of public works at Victoria was notified on Tuesday night that the work had been started and unless something unforeseen happens the work will proceed steadily till completed. It should be ready for use at an early date this fall. It is not a big job.

Just why the high level bridge was condemned the department at Victoria never stated, and as long as the same engineers remain at the head of affairs there the reason never will be known, if indeed those engineers know themselves. In the meantime the citizens of the district will have to put up with the substitute and pretend they like it until such time as the population is big enough and the development of the district is extensive enough to demand the high level bridge. The substitute is certainly better than no bridge.

The present government and the local engineers are also entitled to credit for refusing to consider the proposed Hospital site bridge which was destined to do away with New Hazelton and also with the bridge at Hazelton, and to establish another townsite and a new station yard. Money was even provided for that proposition, but upon examination it was found to be not at all feasible, and estimated at a lower price than would be necessary, especially for the road work, if indeed a road could be built at all. Hon. Mr. McKenzie and Hon. Mr. Bruhn, as soon as they saw the proposed Hospital site said "Nothing doing on that".

For the present at least the bridge and the road now under construction will serve the purposes of the district, and in due course the proper bridge may be provided.

Students Pass High School and Entrance Exam.

During the past week the results of the midsummer examinations were published in the daily press of the south. Many children were delighted, but a goodly number were far from being delighted. Something like two-thirds of those trying were successful, and that would indicate that either the teachers are inefficient or the examiners are not qualified. In the high school entrance examinations the rural schools took all the honors. One pupil from Vancouver was fourth while Victoria and New Westminster did not show.

The matriculation examinations resulted in Vancouver taking all the big marks and prizes.

The results in the northern part of the province were as follows:

HIGH SCHOOL ENTRANCE

Burns Lake centre—Louis A. Gair, South Bulkley, 360; Thelma Peterson, 412, Sylvia M. Brunell 373, John Halpenny 372, Stanley Carrier 360, all of Burns Lake.

Hazelton centre—Mary J. Mathers 426, Four Mile (Kisplox), Bernard L. Hindle 397, Neil B. Sterritt 360, Hazelton, William Sargent 375, New Hazelton.

Marion I. Foley, Round Lake, 399; Sheila K. Hoops 444, Cecil John V. Agnew 420, Stuart J. Croteau 416, Robt. E. Donaldson 404, Telkwa.

BEST CROPS FOR YEARS

Local Farmers and Gardeners Pleasantly Surprised With the Recent Rapid Growth.

The crops in this district are the best that have been had for a number of years. It is true that the dry and the cold of early spring, and in fact until a few days ago, was hard on the early hay crop, the second crop of alfalfa, the oats, wheat, roots, spuds and fruit is better than for a long time. The only trouble is that the acreage is small, and the total crop of the northern interior will not be much effected. The yield in this particular part of the country this year should, however, be an inducement to others to move in here, and the settlers here now should be encouraged to plant a larger acreage next year. The local market will consume several times what is being produced, and the local market is developing faster than the production.

PREPARING A NEW REPORT

District Mining Engineer D. Lay is now working on material for a new preliminary report for the department of mines. It has been decided to issue two preliminary reports in future as the demand is great and the development of mining is greater than ever in the history of the province. The new report will cover the last six months. It will include new discoveries, and development of prospects and of the more advanced mines.

Road for Prince Rupert is Going Down South Side of Skeena---Surveyors Busy

A survey party working for the Department of Public Works of British Columbia, will start out Thursday of this week from Remo to locate a route for the road from Prince Rupert to connect with the main highway at Terrace. The survey will be made down the south side of the Skeena to a point opposite Skeena City or Tyee where a ferry will be operated across. There is a good pass at the back of either of the two places mentioned with an elevation not over 500 feet. The choice of the ferry location will depend upon the sand bars. The best possible site will be selected so as to avoid the sand bars and long approaches.

The idea of any pass being found back from the Skeena was abandoned after Engineer Gwyer made the trip over the country in an aeroplane. He went up some ten thousand feet and covered a wide stretch of country, asking in all the advocated possible sites. He found the country glacier locked. All the rivers head up into the glaciers and there is no chance of getting a road through. Even were it possible, and it is not, to get through the road would be open only three or four months of the year as that is a great snow country.

The route along the Skeena on the south side will open a good deal of new country for exploration and prospecting and the road, when built, will be open at least eight months of the year.

There is no doubt but that the road from Prince Rupert will be built on the south side of the Skeena river and connected with the north side by a ferry at a point near Skeena City or Tyee. The people of Prince Rupert will also find that the road will be built much sooner than they have been lead to believe. The government decided to get right first and then shove the work through. That policy has been followed. The only problem now is to get a short channel for the ferry crossing.

FLOWER SHOW PLANS

Society Met Last Friday night and a Full Program Will be Given Next Week

Preparations are well under way for the annual flower show at Hazelton on August 15th next. There was a general meeting of the society last Saturday night and a meeting of the executive on Monday night. The show will be conducted much along the same lines as last year. Negotiations are on for a baseball game, etc. In next week's issue a full program will be published. In the meantime the flower gardens are making great progress and what looked like a failure a couple of weeks ago now give promise of a very fine display of bloom and foliage.

Joe. Kelly of Smithers has been doing assessment work on the London group of claims at Topley near the Topley-Richfield property, and last week he reported finding some very rich ore in place. The discovery was made on the London claim which is owned by Wm. Gow of South Hazelton. The ore carries gold and silver. Samples were sent away to assayed.

Mrs. E. R. Cox and family returned to Hazelton last week after spending nearly a year in Vancouver.

WORKING ON THE SUSKWA

J. Allen Rutherford and a Party of Men Took Supplies out the First of the Week

J. A. Rutherford, owner of the Suskwa group of claims on the Babine trail is now on the job doing assessment work. Associated with Mr. Rutherford are a number of old timers of this district. There are 32 claims in the combination and the owners are optimistic about the immediate future as several engineers representing big companies are going in to examine it this summer. The surface showings are reported to be the biggest in the interior with copper as one of the predominating minerals. Considerable work has been done to date and the group is in good shape for a big company to take hold. The Suskwa is situated some miles up the Babine trail. There is a kind of a wagon road as far as Six Mile but after that it is a pack trail and not a very good one at that as it has been more or less neglected for the past number of years. At one time all the Babine business was over that trail and that business was considerable. An effort is now being made to have the wagon road extended from Six Mile to the mining property, at least.

Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Boulding of the Duthie Mine called on New Hazelton friends last Sunday.

FIRESIDE CLUB ORGANIZED

Proposed to Hold Weekly Meetings—Pleasant Fall and Winter is in Prospect

At a meeting held last Saturday evening at the home of Mrs. Sawle the Fireside Club of New Hazelton was formed. It was decided that the club should meet each Thursday evening at eight o'clock sharp. A feature is that three members will be chosen each meeting to be responsible for the program for the following meeting, and all who come late to the meetings will be fined ten cents for each offense, unless armed with a good and sufficient excuse. Refreshments will be served at 10.30 and the meeting closed at eleven o'clock so that there will be no interference with any other form of entertainment arranged for Friday evenings.

The officers elected were:—Jenn Burns, president; Mrs. Roy Guss, vice-president and Mrs. H. W. Wood, secretary-treasurer.

Anyone wishing to join the association will kindly notify the president or the secretary so that preparations may be made accordingly. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. J. Russell on Thursday evening.

Cooper H. Wrinch leaves Thursday for Vancouver where he will take his final examinations as a druggist. He will be away for some two months. In his absence the store will be in the care of J. B. Hodgins.

Smithers Bank Bandit in Jail After a Long Chase Money and Gun Recovered

James Wesley Berke has confessed that he is the original and only bank robber who banditied the Royal Bank of Canada in Smithers a week or so ago. Berke was taken into custody on Sunday morning about six o'clock and on Monday had his preliminary trial and was committed for trial at the fall assizes. He will go to Okala for a rest in the meantime.

Berke robbed the bank of some two thousand dollars, more or less. He gave one of his pursuers on the day of the robbery, nearly a thousand dollars and the balance he kept with him until he got near Walcott where he deposited it, along with his gun, under the floor of the lavatory at the station. It has been recovered, all but about $50.

Ever since the robbery the bandit has been making slow progress through the bush towards the east. At several points he was reported as having been seen. The police followed up every clue and the bad man knew no real comfort during all those days.

Last Saturday word was received that a rabbit had been taken from the station at Quick. While the police investigated this another report came in that a suspicious man was seen near Walcott. A section man from Quick was sent out to Walcott with instructions to pick up anyone who could not account for his presence in the district. The man was located about two miles from Walcott. Engineer McIntyre indicated to the hunters where their man was. He was taken in charge and was being taken to Quick on a hand car. At a point along the road the bandit grabbed a rifle and jumped off the hand car and took to the bush once more.

Sargt. Service, upon learning this organized a band of Indian trappers and sent them into the bush after the escaped robber. There was a dozen or more on the trail, but about six Sunday morning Jack Joseph, Chas. Patrick and Patrick Pom came across him and brought him into the police, or in some way, were the cause of the police getting hold of him. He was landed safely in the Smithers jail.

Berke is a stranger to Smithers, at least so far as the police could learn. Whether it is the first time the man strayed from the straight and narrow had not been learned, but the prisoner's history will be hunted up in due course. In the meantime the Smithers people will have to dig around for a new game and some new excitement.

HIS BLESSING FOR THE EDITORS

Speaking of prayers, Dr. T. D. Bate-man, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, Columbus, Miss., opened the sixty-fourth annual convention of the Mississippi Press Association at Columbus with a divine supplication that surprised even the newspaper men present. It follows:

"We ask Thy blessings upon these newspaper people, who are wont to communicate with the ends of the earth. They are people who can smell a revolution in China; people who have licence to enter the gates of Princes and Potentates, but who will have a mighty hard time getting inside the gates of Paradise.

"Have mercy on these people who the tempted by every devil from printer's devil to the devils of newspaper headlines. And these same people who are so busy listening to the songs of the wires and the songs of the women, that oftentimes the voice of God finds no listener among them and no place in their hearts.

"Have mercy on these people who have to carry all kinds of things in the cause of their newspapers. Have mercy, O Lord, on these people who are invited to so many luncheons and banquets that they must sacrifice their digestion on the altar of free advertising.

"Have mercy, O Lord, on these people and help them in their dash from ballroom to church social and back to rum-runners, and who have to associate with anybody from Andy Mellon to Andy Gump."

THE COUNTRY EDITOR

Among those who are performing the finest public service for this province are the editors of country and small town newspapers.

It is true that country editors frequently take their inspiration from city dailies in the tone they give to world events. The country editor has neither the space nor the facilities to print the great cross section of great happenings that the metropolitan daily can present.

But the metropolitan dailies are not everything. They can not begin to give the intimate picture of human life that the country or small town paper can give.

The country editor is living right with his public. He not only knows what John Jones does but has a pretty good idea what John Jones is thinking.

The metropolitan editor learns to know events. The country editor learns to know men. And because the country editor learns to know men and to understand them, he frequently leaves a mark of shrewd and intimate kindness on his editorial page which the metropolitan editor has neither the opportunity nor the time to acquire.

There are close to a hundred country and small town papers in British Columbia. To be unacquainted with at least some of them is to be unacquainted with the life of this province. —The Vancouver Sun.

The Hobo and the Bandit

Well first of all I wish to tell you people that I'm just a plain honest-to-goodness hobo, and secondly that Smithers is the bunk. All I ever saw in that town was cops and guns, and all I ever heard about was bandits. "A good place" thinks I "to avoid"

I was going through on the train from Edmonton to Rupert not long ago when I suddenly took a notion to stay over a day at Smithers. Such a greeting I received. I just got off when a bunch of cops gathered around and shouted "Stick up your hands" I was scared stiff and jumped about six feet but obligingly did as I was told, they searched my pockets, tickled my ribs and made horrible threats until I almost lost my mind.

"Hand over the money" ordered one big policeman, pointing his gun at me. I took one look at the gun. It seemed to grow bigger and bigger until it looked like a cannon. I gave him all I had which was only ten cents. "Here it is" said I, "Golly I thought you bozos was cops, but now, I know you're bandits. Say ten cents don't seem much, but right now its all I've got and it seems a heck of a lot to me. Have a heart and give it back, won't you?"

"Take it" says the big guy disgustedly, "and come with us."

"Thanks kindhearted" I replied "but dont you think you should pay me some interest on that dime?"

"No" he roars, "but you're going to have a holiday and answer a few questions"

"Whoopee!" I cried "when do we start?"

"Now" says he, and slipped some handcuffs on me.

"Say" I said, "What the big idea? What am I up for murder, theft or bigamy?"

"If you don't shut up" he threatened, "you'll be up for all three"

"I didn't say any more for awhile, but I sure thought a lot. Six cops surrounded me and marched me through town, and such commotion we caused. Everybody in town trooped and yelled, "The Bandit. They've caught the Bandit."

"Bandit" thought I "Is that what I am? When and where did I last help myself to a chicken? Well, anyway I'd reform. I really don't think I care for chicken anyway"

We arrived at the police station in due course and a bunch of men came in and started to pester me. They set me in a chair and kept bringing people in to look at me, until I thought I must be some freak from a side-show. It seems that some guy robbed the Smithers' bank, and they sort of thought that I looked like a desperado and tried to blame me.

A bank teller came in first and gaped at me.

"Do you think this is the robber?" asked the cop.

"I'm not sure" said the teller, "but I don't think he is."

"Well I'm sure" says I "if I was in the bunk and you was in the bunk at by our lonesomes; and I had a gun and you had none, I'd get a darn sight more than two thousand dollars."

He gave me one of his dirty looks so I piped down. Everyone stared at me and argued till I began to get peeved. "I'm hungry" I said, "and sleepy. Won't you leave me alone for awhile?"

"No" said the cop, "We're all staying here. Are you the bandit?"

"No" I replied

"Prove it then," he ordered.

"I've forgotten all my geometry" I said, "but I'll write a poem for you."

"Oh, keep quiet," he said "I'm sick of your nonsense."

"And I'm sick of yours" I retorted "I wish you'd give me something to eat"

"Alright then I will" he said and issued orders to bring me some food.

Pretty soon in came another man. He was rather thin and short and had sandy hair.

Is this the man you chased up the street and through the bush?" asked the cop.

"Yes" I piped up "Did you ever chase me? Golly, if you ever started after me I sure would run"

The newcomer grinned and I grinned back, "He's a good guy anyway," I thought.

"Say," I asked are you the guy that chased the bandit and persuaded him to give you some of his loot?"

He looked kind of sheepish and said that he was.

"Powers of persuasion are not always wasted!"

"Listen" I went on, "let me in on that line too won't you? I need it in my profession. Gee when someone gets tough and robs a bank it must take a genius to persuade him to share up. Especially when the desperado is armed and the genius ain't."

I pondered over this for awhile and I guess my new found friend did too, when the cop butts in and spoils our friendly chat.

"Well, is he the bandit or is he not?" demanded the police impatiently.

"He is not," said the bandit-chaser. "The robber was gruff and homely."

"Meaning," I remarked, "that I'm sweet and pretty."

"Shades of St. Patrick!" exclaimed the cop, "then I must be beautiful."

"Sorry to disagree," I replied, "but I don't think you would ever win a beauty contest."

"Who pays you to do any thinking?" snapped the law officer.

"No one," I replied pleasantly "its the one thing I do, gratis."

The cop made no reply to me but yelled for some one to come and let me go. I was real sore when they kicked me out. They might have let me sleep in the coop the rest of the night. It would have been more comfortable than out in the open. The next day I beat it from Smithers and unlike Lot's wife, I did not even turn around for a last look.

LOCKJAW OR TETANUS

The disease Tetanus is commonly called Lockjaw because, when it occurs, the mouth becomes firmly fixed due to the rigid condition of the muscles of the jaw. The disease is caused by a germ whose entrance to the body is usually gained through a wound which tears the tissues of the body or which punctures them.

The germ of Tetanus has certain peculiarities. It grows best where there is no air, and so it thrives at the bottom of a punctured wound or in the depths of a lacerated wound where the air does not penetrate. This germ belongs to a group of germs which are able to form spores. The spore is a resistant state into which the germ goes when conditions for its living are unfavorable, and in this state it is able to lie dormant for long periods of time. The spore becomes an active germ again when conditions are favorable, for example, when it is introduced into the human body through a wound.

The germ of Tetanus lives in the intestines of cows, horses and sheep. Any wound received on the farm, or any wound contaminated by dirt, particularly if the dirt is at all likely to contain manure, such as street dirt, is very likely to contain tetanus germs.

Any wound made by a nail or any other piercing implement is the type of wound favorable to tetanus. We may say in any wound where dirt is forced under the skin, there is danger of tetanus.

Every wound no matter how slight should be thoroughly cleansed with soap and water, and then cleaned so as to keep it clean. Every wound where dirt has been driven under the skin should be treated by a doctor.

Tetanus can be prevented. The wound should be properly cared for and, in addition when there is any suggestion that it is the type of wound that tetanus is likely to occur, tetanus antitoxin should be given. During the Great War every wounded man received tetanus antitoxin with the result that the disease was practically always prevented, because if the disease is allowed to develop, the outlook is bad as far as treatment is concerned.

CANADIAN NATIONAL TAKE OVER FLIN FLON RAILWAY

The Manitoba Northern Railway, popularly known as the Flin Flon Railway will be completed and turned over to the Canadian National Railways for operation about the end of July.

The construction of this branch line quite apart from the role it was designed to play in the development of the mineral resources of the northern portion of the province, added an interesting chapter to the highlights of the transportation history of Canada. The line, approximately 88 miles long, was begun with the awarding of the contract to the Dominion Construction Company, Toronto, and W. S. Tomlinson, Winnipeg, on December 2nd, 1927 and the last spike of the skeleton track was driven on September 22nd, 1928, by Hon. John Bracken, Premier of Manitoba.

To accomplish this record in railway construction through difficult country and in face of severe winter conditions the contractors laid steel on the frozen muskeg for the first fifty miles. This was followed by grading in the Spring and summer when the track was lifted to sub-grade and the shallow cuts reduced at the same time. For the following thirty-eight miles the rock formation encountered permitted the usual practice of building the grade first and following the track as the grade was ready to receive it.

As quickly as the track was laid, operating facilities, telegraph line, buildings, etc., were erected and one year from the date of the signing of the contract the Hudson Bay Mining & Smelting Co. was able to commence transporting the heavy machinery for equipping its plant at the head of the line.

This is vacation time—a period of rest and recreation. What more delightful vacation pastime do you know of than a picnic in a lovely sheltered spot, perhaps on a bank of a willow-fringed stream. To some people picnic means a camp fire and a meal cooked in the open, but other prefer simply to open baskets and have the meal already prepared.

For this purpose there are many types of picnic hampers equipped with vacuum bottles for hot and cold drinks containers for sandwiches and salads and enamel cups and plates. If we are fortunate enough to own such a hamper, packing the picnic basket is easy. However, many a delicious repast has been packed with success in a common market basket.

Cold baked ham which has been glazed with honey, fried chicken or assorted cold cuts may be the substantial dish around which the rest of the meal is built—or a hearty salad, deviled eggs, or baked beans may be the pièce de résistance. With a variety of sandwiches, and fresh vegetables such as radishes, onions and tomatoes and the addition of a simple dessert of fruit and cookies, our picnic menu is complete.

Some sandwiches which are suitable for the basket lunch are:

Dried Beef and Cheese Sandwich
¾ c dried beef; ¼ cup grated cheese
¼ cup chopped celery; tomato soup.

Mix dried beef, cheese and celery thoroughly and add enough tomato soup to moisten. Spread between slices of rye or bran bread.

Fried Ham and Onion Sandwich
½ lb. smoked ham, seasoned and fried quite brown; 2 large dill pickles; 1 small spanish onion; ½ cup Mayonnaise.

Put ham, pickles and onion through a food chopper and mix with mayonnaise. Spread between slices of bread.

Egg and Olive Sandwich
2 hard cooked eggs; ¼ cup chopped

THEY SHOT THE BEAR THAT ATE THE BUTTER

Tourists at the Lakelse Lodge were thrilled pleasantly and otherwise last week when a large grizzly ventured within ten feet of the back door in search of groceries. On a previous visit Bruce wasn't prepared to greet him effectively, no rifle being at hand, but he took more than a dozen "close-ups" with his camera. On Saturday, however, when the bear came into the clearing for another raid three rifle barrels gleamed from upper story windows and a broadside salvo brought the thief down on his haunches. After dragging himself a few feet he dropped. Another bear believed to be three times as big as the one shot crashed away through the woods—he must have scented the firearms and anyway

Advertised Goods Are Lower

ADVERTISING turns over stocks rapidly, and therefore multiplies profits. This means that prices in a shop which advertises can be short rather than long.

Of this you may be sure: Prices in a shop which advertises are not MORE than in a shop which does not advertise. The chances are that they are oftentimes lower.

This, also, is generally true: You will find better goods, better values and better service in those shops which turn over their stocks rapidly. This means, as a general thing, shops which advertise.

A NOTE TO MERCHANTS

Advertising costs you nothing—it is paid for by the profits of increased sales.

Advertising is easy—it is simply saying in writing what you say to your customers in your shop. Turn over stocks quickly, if you would make more money.
